

Equitable Transit-Oriented Development

The case of Langley Park and the Purple Line

Cheryl Cort
Policy Director
Coalition for Smarter Growth

Rail~volution
Washington D.C.
October 17, 2011

University Blvd. by New Hampshire Ave., Langley Park, MD; site of new bus transit center

Purple Line

A planned light rail connecting Bethesda to New Carrollton by way of Silver Spring, Langley Park and College Park, Maryland

- 16 miles long; $1.5 billion
- Alignment planned inside the Beltway, through inner suburban communities
- Connects wealthy job centers on the west with less affluent inner suburbs to the east
- Links spokes of the Metrorail system
- Add 48,000 transit riders
- 10,000–13,000 daily bus riders
- Bus transit center in near term

Fear of displacement

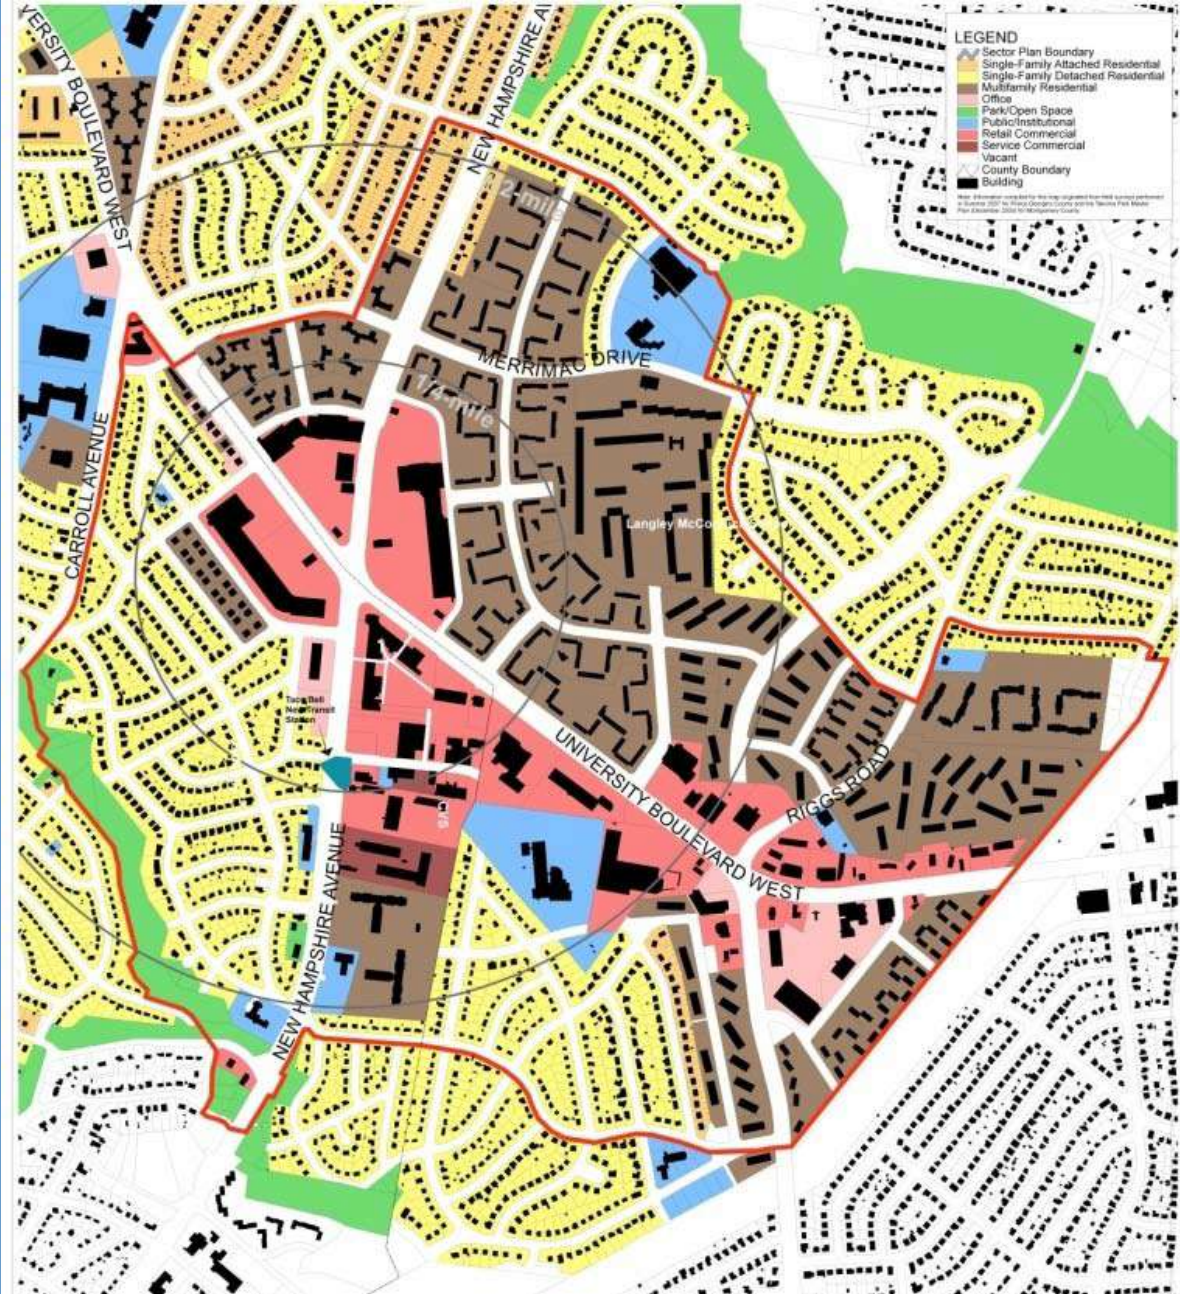

- Langley Park is a low income immigrant community
- 68% of 20,000 residents are renters
- 58% Hispanic or Latino
- 3 of 5 foreign born
- Median income: $37,000 a year
- Thriving small business sector
- 20% ride transit to work; 34% drive alone
- High foreclosure rate
- CASA de Maryland & Catholic Church presence

Current Land Use

- Garden Apartments
- Strip malls
- Wide, high speed roads

Change

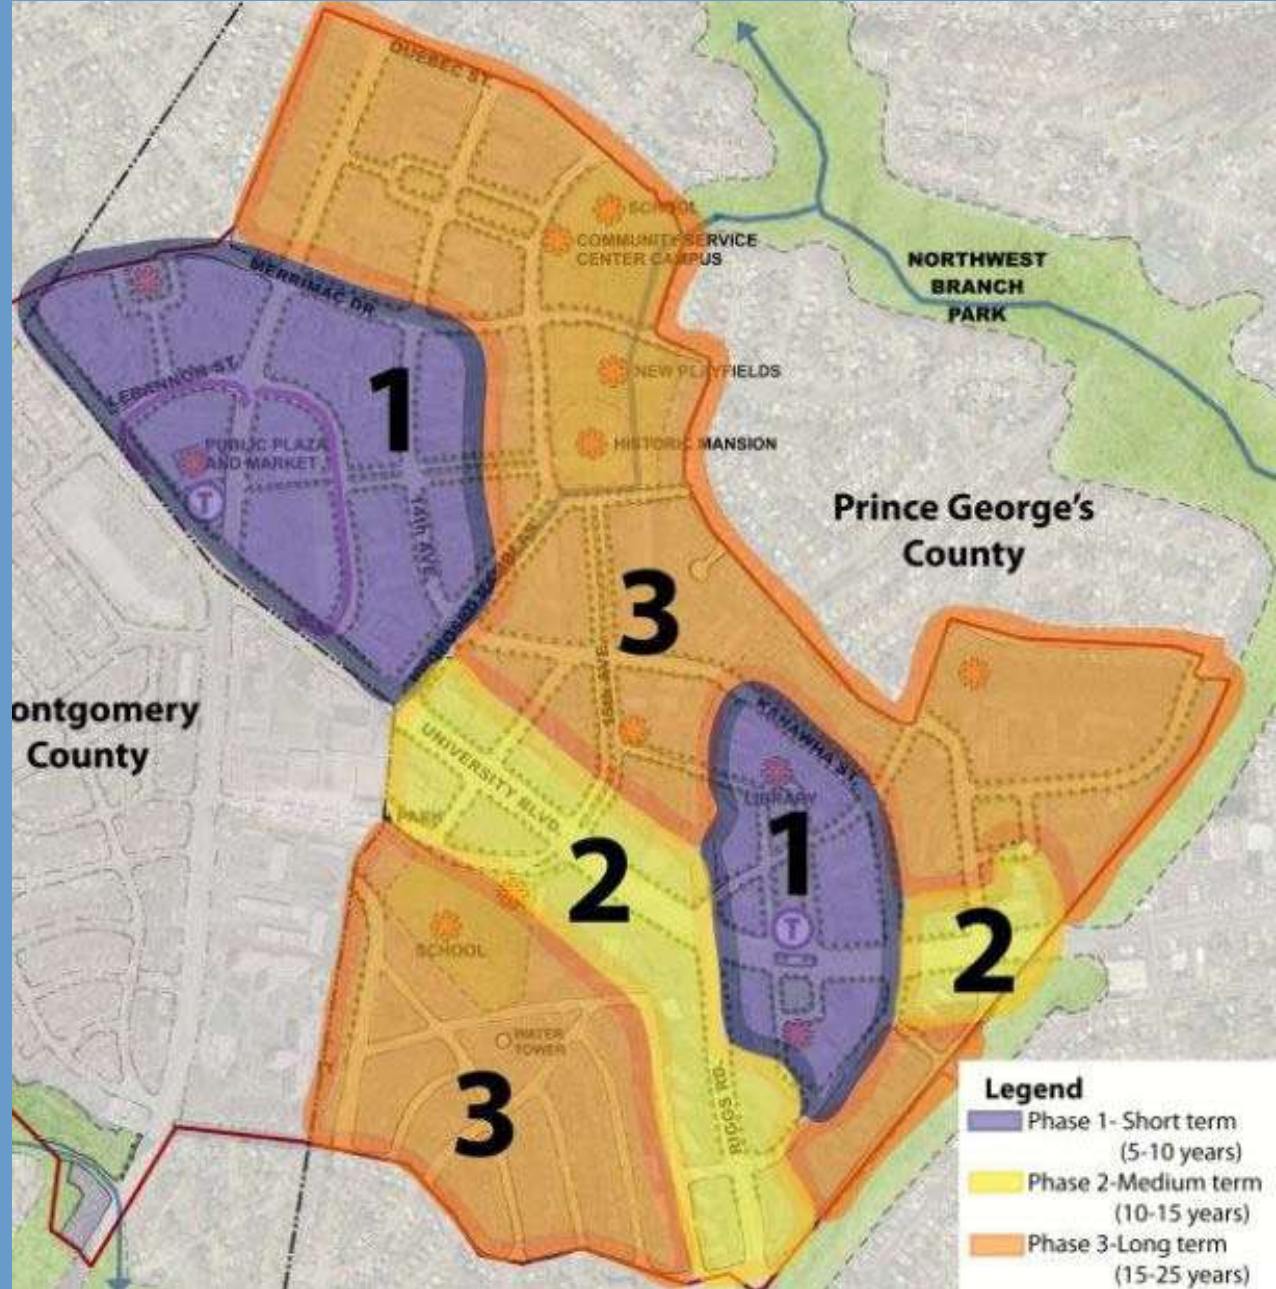

Takoma/ Langley Sector Plan

(Prince George's Co.)

Changes we won

- ✓ Don't rezone residential areas before housing preservation strategy
- ✓ Focus on the commercial core, not apartments
- ✓ Establish an affordable housing work group

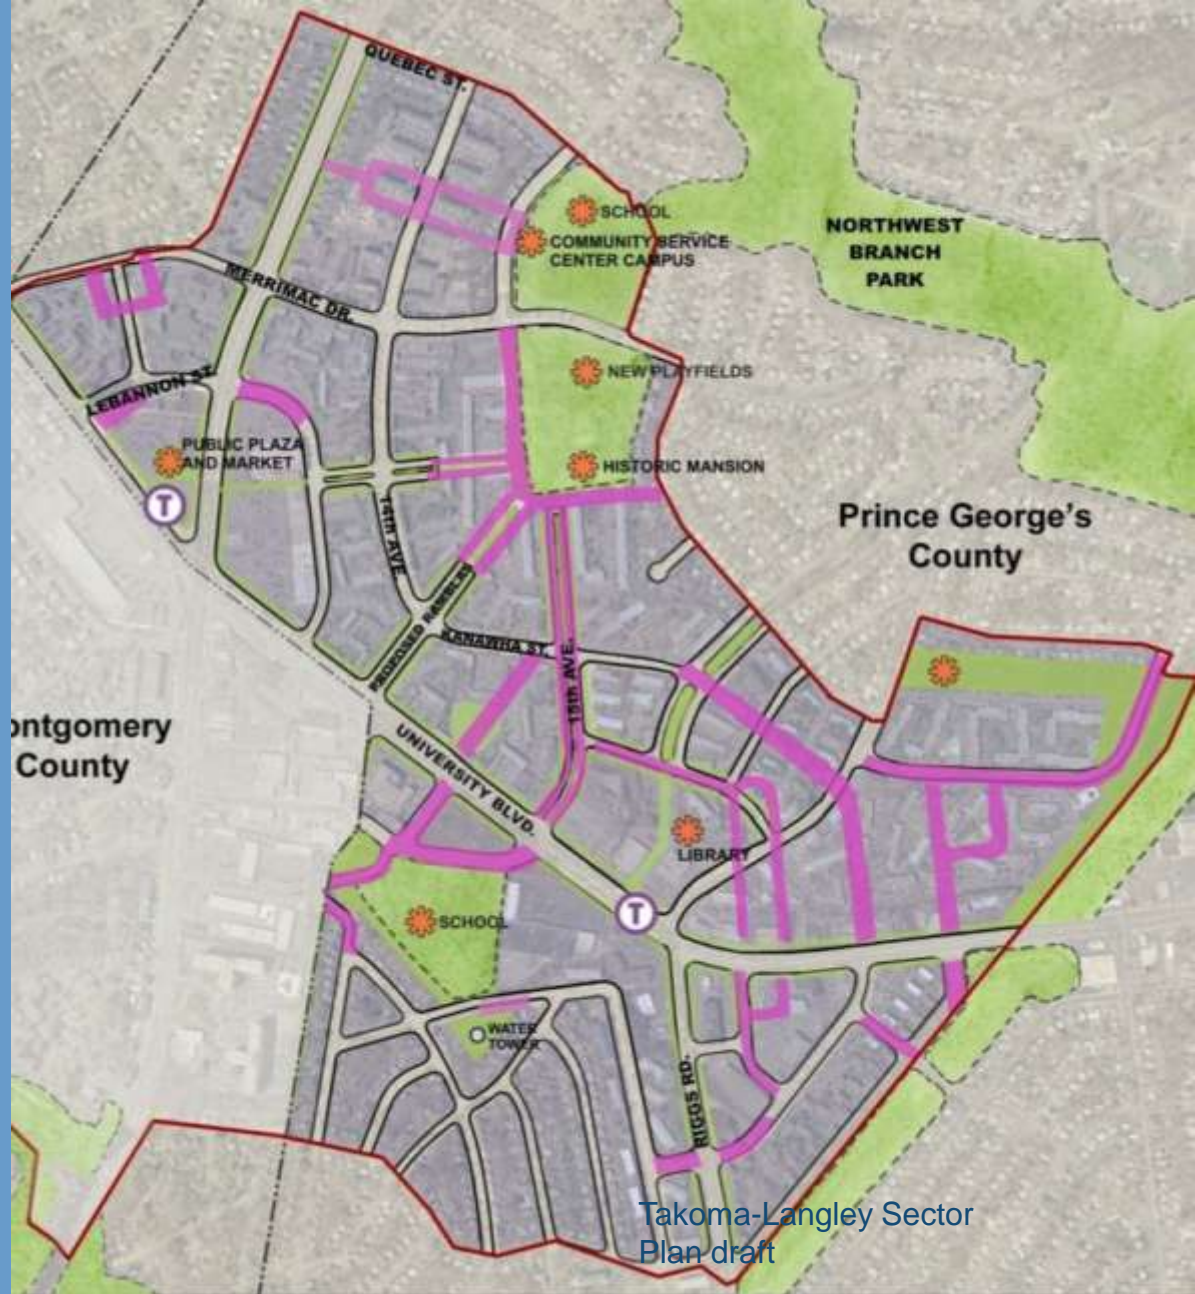

Phase 1 shunk to commercial parcels at stations

What we won

- ✓ Delete streets & parks overlaid on existing housing, make pedestrian connections instead.
- ✓ Public Market Housing – state in text (shown on map)

What we did not get (yet)

Ask: Preservation of affordable housing as a clear, specific goal.
New language: “provide phasing strategy for reinvestment in distressed housing.”

Ask: Tie density bonus to small business space set aside in redevelopment

Ask: Create a Small Business work group – not simply a marketing group.

Housing preservation – in advance of any rezoning

- Affordable housing preservation strategy
- Leverage federal, state and local funds
- Buy large apartment complexes in foreclosure
- Inclusionary zoning
- Housing Trust Fund
- Renters' first right of refusal
- Condo conversion controls
- No net loss of affordable homes

Small business & local jobs

- Small business assistance program
- Local and minority hiring
- Funding for business tenants to purchase their buildings
- Public market house for small businesses
- Discounted space for small businesses in new buildings

Fair Development Campaign

The Campaign for Good Jobs and Stable, Healthy Communities

CASA de Maryland
Coalition for Smarter Growth
Catholic Community of Langley Park
St. Camillus Church
Justice & Advocacy Council of Prince George's County
Jews United for Justice
PRISCM

Coalition for Smarter Growth's countywide policy & education strategy

Cheryl Cort
Policy Director, Coalition for Smarter Growth
T. 202-244-4408 x 112; E cheryl@smartergrowth.net
www.smartergrowth.net; Twitter: BetterDCRegion

